Background on Website Item 5

Dan Allison is proposing that the SacMoves coalition approve the creation of a simple website/blog for the coalition. The draft site can be accessed below. If the website/blog remains in this simple format, Dan proposes to maintain it by himself on behalf of the coalition. The site currently has a built-in contact form, and by default, the message is sent to the site administrator, who is Dan alone. If, on the other hand, the coalition prefers enhancements that are more standard for a publicly accessible website designed to attract visitors and/or to use it as a blog, we will need to form a small team/subcommittee to develop a plan to design and maintain a more sophisticated website and/or blog on behalf of the coalition, including provisions for who would be the official point of contact and who would regularly respond to inquiries/contacts.

1. Go to <https://wordpress.com/log-in>
2. Login as user allisondanicloud, password = fmk0par.WBR2qgk@maw
3. Most of the content is on pages, accessed through the menu at top

Note from Dan: This is a single account that only allows one person to log in and view the site at a time. The only other way to handle this would be for each of you who want to access it create or use your own wordpress.com account, and then Dan would have to add you as a user of this site. I don't want to do that. So please don't wait to the last moment to view the site, as you are unlikely to be able to get in.
